

Family Promise is a nonprofit 501(c)3, non-denominational organization supporting families in transition and committed to helping low-income families nationwide achieve lasting independence. In more than 150 communities across the country, Family Promise networks provide safe shelter, meals, and support services to get families back on their feet, while addressing the underlying causes of homelessness.

Our local network is currently in the development stage, and we hope to be able to welcome guests in 2011. Meanwhile, we meet on the third Monday of most months to plan, develop strategies, and pray for our congregations and the people we will serve.

If you have a heart for local families who need a helping hand to get back on their feet, you can make a difference through supporting Family Promise of Santa Clarita Valley.
